SUSPICIOUS TRANSACTIONS

Suspicious transactions are those that have no business or apparent lawful purpose, are unusual for the customer, or lack any reasonable explanation.

CUSTOMER IDENTIFICATION PROGRAM

Financial Services Companies must ascertain the identity of their customers, learn the nature of the customer's business and learn the intended purpose of customers' transactions.

The Company's anti-money laundering procedures mandate that individuals and entities that refuse to provide information verifying their identities, will not be permitted to open accounts at VERTIFX.COM, LLC.

All new accounts will be sent to the Irvine office to be approved by "COMPLIANCE". "COMPLIANCE" will ensure that the new account form is complete. "COMPLIANCE" will review all new accounts for financial credit worthiness and trading suitability purposes. However, he will also review for anti-money laundering purposes. "COMPLIANCE" will check to ensure that identifying information is listed for all individuals named on the new account form and that none of the individuals named on OFAC or any other watch lists are opened at the Company.

The stated purpose of customers in placing funds with VERTIFX.COM, LLC is set forth in the VERTIFX.COM, LLC customer agreement, to wit: speculation in foreign currencies. Any conduct or account activity that is inconsistent with trading foreign currencies with a goal of profiting thereby, must be considered suspicious activity and reported immediately to "COMPLIANCE" who will evaluate the situation and determine whether to take further action consistent with these procedures.

The process of "knowing one's customer," through the NFA's Customer Identification Program, is not concluded once the initial account opening information has been obtained. Even after the account is established, in the normal course of the relationship, the Company must continue to build upon the information initially provided by the customer and update their records accordingly.

The Company may consider the following factors, among others, in assessing the risks of violating Anti-Money Laundering Policies posed by particular customers or transactions:

- Whether the customer is an individual, an intermediary, public, private, domestic or foreign corporation, a financial or non-financial institution, or regulated person or entity;
- Whether the customer has been an existing customer for a significant period of time;
- How the customer became a customer of the Company;
- Whether the business of the customer or the particular type of account, is the type more likely to be involved in illicit activity (e.g., cash intensive businesses);
- Whether the customer's home country is listed on FATF's list of non-cooperative countries or OFAC's list of sanctioned countries or is otherwise subject to adequate anti-money laundering controls in its home jurisdiction; and
- Whether the customer resides in, is incorporated in or operates from a jurisdiction with bank secrecy laws, or one that has otherwise been identified as an area worthy of enhanced scrutiny.

If it is determined to accept a foreign customer account where the country of residence is listed on FATF's list of non-cooperative countries or OFAC's list of sanctioned countries, additional monitoring of the customer's trading and cash activity will be conducted by "COMPLIANCE". He will review, in detail, all transactions and cash activity by examining the monthly account statements to ensure that none of the "red flags" set forth in the Wire Activity and Management Review Sections below should be raised.

Subject to the Company's own assessment of any additional due diligence necessary to assess risk, the following procedures are ordinarily appropriate for the following types of accounts:

US Individual Accounts

For accounts opened by an individual, the Company will obtain the following information at the commencement of the business relationship:

- The name, address and social security number of the customer(s);
- A copy of the customer's driver's license or passport;
- The customer's date of birth and social security number;
- The customer's investment experience and objectives, if applicable;
- The customer's net worth and annual income; and
- The customer's occupation and employment data, such as the employer's address (generally understood to be the customer's source of income).

Customers Applying for Tax ID Number

No account will be accepted that is in the process of applying for a taxpayer ID number. Customer must already have a Tax ID number.

Non-US Individual Accounts

In addition to the information obtained for individual accounts, the Company will obtain and record a current passport number or other valid government identification number and obtain all necessary U.S. tax forms, for non-resident alien ("NRA") accounts (W-9). Additional due diligence may be warranted depending on a number of factors, including the country of origin of the NRA.

Domestic Operating or Commercial Entities

As part of the requirement to open account, the Company will obtain information sufficient to ascertain the identity of the corporate or business entity opening the account and the authority of the business representative to act on the corporation's or entity's behalf. This information will also be checked against existing OFAC lists and current databases. The type of documentation obtained by Company may vary depending upon the nature of the corporate or business entity. Accounts that lack this information may not be permitted to continue to do business with the Company. Below is the basic information VERTIFX.COM, LLC requires:

- Unexpired photo id of all directors
- Taxpayer identification number;
- Articles of Incorporation
- Bylaws stating that they can trade Forex and that the officer trading has the authority to trade in the company's behalf.
- Business Registration for current address

Domestic Trusts

The Company will identify the principal ownership of a trust. Identities will be checked against OFAC lists and current databases. In addition, the Company will obtain information regarding the authorized activity of the trust and the persons authorized to act on behalf of the trust. Accounts that do not provide this information on a timely basis will be forbidden to conduct business with the Company.

Omnibus Accounts

If such an account is presented to Company management, the Company will first investigate the Financial Institutions to ascertain whether it has adequate anti-money laundering procedures in place to comply with the current regulations and the policies of VERTIFX.COM, LLC.

Commodity Pools

The Company will demand the names, addresses, dates of birth and social security numbers of all commodity pool participants. Identities will be checked against OFAC lists and current databases. In addition, the Company will obtain information regarding the authorized activity of the pool and the persons authorized to act on behalf of the pool. Commodity Pool Accounts that do not provide this information on a timely basis will be forbidden to conduct business with the Company.

Foreign Operating Commercial Entities

Commercial entities will be expected to produce forms indicating the identity of persons authorized to place orders on behalf of the commercial entity. "COMPLIANCE" will review these documents to ensure completeness. The names of the commercial entity and the authorized principals will be compared against the OFAC list and a current database.

Consistent with the provisions of the PATRIOT ACT relating to prohibited foreign shell banks, the Company may not establish, maintain, administer or manage an account in the United States for, or on behalf of a prohibited foreign shell bank. The Patriot Act also requires the Company to take reasonable steps to ensure that correspondent accounts are not used indirectly to provide banking services to foreign shell banks.

Personal Investment Corporations or Personal Holding Company

Accounts must identify the principal beneficial owner(s) of offshore corporate accounts where such owners are personal investment corporations or personal holding companies. The names of the holding company and the principal owner will be compared against the OFAC list and a current database.

Offshore Trusts

Accounts must identify the principal ownership of a trust established in a foreign jurisdiction. The Company will ask for information about the trust and its participants in order to conduct additional due diligence for trusts established in jurisdictions which lack regulatory oversight over trust formation. Although the documentation may vary, the Company must obtain sufficient documentation regarding the principal ownership of the account. Additional due diligence may also be warranted depending on a number of factors, including the location of the offshore entity and the location of the principal owner(s). The names of all entities will be compared against the OFAC list and current database.

Accounts will not be opened for "foreign shell banks." A foreign shell bank is defined as a foreign bank that does not have a physical presence (such as headquarters building, staff of employees, etc.) in any country. Pursuant to Section 313 of the USA PATRIOT Act: "this prohibition does not apply if the foreign bank is an affiliate of a depository institution, credit union, or foreign bank that maintains a physical presence in the United States or a foreign country as applicable and is subject to the supervision by a banking authority in the foreign country regulating such affiliated depository institution, credit union or foreign bank. An "affiliate" is a foreign bank that is controlled by or is under common control with a depository institution, credit union or foreign bank."

All employees should be alert for any situations that may be "indicators" for potential money laundering activities.

- Customer exhibits an unusual concern regarding the Company's compliance with government reporting requirements, particularly with respect to his or her identity, type of business and assets, or is reluctant or refuses to reveal any information concerning business activities, or furnishes unusual or suspect identification or business documents.
- Customer wishes to engage in transactions that lack business sense, apparent investment strategy, or are inconsistent with the customer stated business or strategy.
- Customer has a questionable background or is the subject of news reports indicating possible criminal, civil or regulatory violations.
- Customer has difficulty describing the nature of his business or lacks general knowledge of his or her industry.

Employees who become aware of any such situations when accounts are being opened, should promptly notify "COMPLIANCE" of the potential suspicious activity. "COMPLIANCE" will make the decision if the account should be opened as is, request additional information, reject the account and/or report the activity to the Company's DSRO or FinCen.

Intermediary Accounts

VERTIFX.COM, LLC will accept business only from intermediaries whom we are confident are regulated and registered by a local exchange/authority with AML policies, and that a complete, in-house review of those policies shows compliance, compatibility and enforcement in line with the policies followed by VERTIFX.COM, LLC and the NFA. This will include risk-based analysis of the money laundering risks posed by the particular intermediary and their reputation in the industry. The policy's implementation will be reviewed and audited as part of the ongoing relationship on a not less than annual basis and more often if suspicious activity occurs. This process will include reviewing the entities own internal review notes, changes, audits and follow through.

In the case of U. S. based intermediaries that are also NFA registrants, the same procedures will be followed. We will do our own client verifications and activity monitoring as stated in this document as rigorously for Introducing Brokers as for our immediate clients since we share direct responsibility with them for its accuracy and have access to these clients documents. Since it is unlikely that our International carrying brokers which have the direct relationship with the customer will want to disclose their client's identities they must assume the responsibility for verifying the accuracy of the client information. This puts a greater emphasis on the risk-based analysis of the money laundering potential and the reputation of both the entity and the regulatory agency they are registered with in their area in our initial decision whether or not to do business with the particular company. If intermediary's policies and/or enforcement are inconsistent with VERTIFX.COM, LLC and the NFA, the intermediary will not be accepted.

If after suspicious activity has been reported to any of the above entities, the response of the intermediary is not in line with their own or VERTIFX.COM, LLC policies, the relationship with them will be terminated.

Rejected Accounts

No account will be allowed to trade until all account documents have been received and processed. If we are unable to verify the identity of the individual or entity, the account will be rejected. If it becomes apparent after an account has been funded that the sources provided were fraudulent or the circumstances have changed and cannot be verified, all trades will be closed and the account closed immediately.

Other events which can cause an account to be rejected include:

- Previous violations or sanctions by the NFA or CFTC
- Account funded by someone other than the account holder
- Client attempts to fund the account with cash.
- The country of origin is on the OFAC list
- The applicant is included in the OFAC/FINCEN list of SDN blocked persons and entities
